THE LAST SPIKE

Of the Regina and Prince Albert Railway Driven by His Honor Lieut.-Governor Royal.

Congratulations—Speeches—Banqueting and General Rejoicing.

On Wednesday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, a large gathering of people assembled at the station to witness the ceremony of driving the last spike of the Regina and Prince Albert Railway. Shortly after the appointed hour the Mayor, in a short speech, asked the Lieut.-Governor of the Territories to perform the pleasant duty, after which His Honor, in a short speech, congratulated the people of this place on the event which they on that day were celebrating. Glad always to be among this people, he was especially well pleased to be here on this occasion and have the honor of driving the last spike in the railway which connects this great country with the outside world.

After Lieut.-Governor Royal, M. F. Davin, M.P., followed with a speech likewise congratulating the people on the auspicious event of the day, and also expressing his pleasure at being in our midst. He entertained the hope that the time is not far distant when this road shall find its terminus at Hudson's Bay, and on which he felt sure that Prince Albert would not be merely a side station but a most important distributing centre, situated as it is in a most promising country.

Mr. Macdowall, M.P., then followed with a few remarks, congratulating ourselves on the completion of this railway, and pointing out the difficulty with which the money was obtained for building it, and how Mr. Davin had been an influential person in obtaining the money grant. Sir John Macdonald's was the great mind which had conceived and carried out the gigantic railway system of which this is a part. The Canadian Pacific railway, of which this is a branch, was built by the great political party of which he is the head, and to Sir John and the party which he represents this country is chiefly indebted for its grand railway system. The ceremony of to-day is called the driving of the last spike, but it really is not, as next year there will be an extension to Battleford, and before long it will be extended to Churchill on the Hudson Bay, when we shall be brought into direct communication with the best and cheapest markets of Europe. Prince Albert is the present terminus of this railway, yet every one believes this is but the commencing of an extended railway development.

After hearty cheers had been given for the different speakers, the large and interested assemblage of spectators took their departure.

In the evening a large number of people assembled at the Curling Rink for the purpose of doing justice to the sumptuous feast which had been provided and joining in the jubilations of the occasion. The caterer for the occasion was Mr. R. Starforth, and it is needless to say the spread was one of the best ever had in the town.

The usual loyal toasts were proposed by Mayor Knowles, to which the gathering responded with the customary songs and expressions of true allegiance to those in authority.

After the toast to the Lieut.-Governor had been proposed and drunk, His Honor, rising in reply, again expressed his pleasure at being here, and heartily thanked the people for the kind way in which they received him, saying that even public men are not without feelings which are affected by the manner in which they are received. As to this railway, he hoped that it would one day be continued in a northerly direction to Hudson's Bay. He was influential in appointing the committee whose duty was to look into the matter of the navigability of the Hudson's Bay, and it was found that these waters were navigable for at least four months in the year, even without charts. This route will bring Prince Albert as near Liverpool as Three Rivers, and in consequence of this no fear need be entertained as to the effects of the McKinley Tariff. For the people of Prince Albert he entertained a great partiality from the similarity of our town to Regina. As Regina is the capital of the Territories, Prince Albert is the natural capital of Saskatchewan.

The next toast was that of the "Army and Navy and N. W. M. Police." This toast was responded to by Major Young and Capt. Smith, who said that all loyal people ought to be proud of the army and navy, and that their motto should be "defence, not defiance." Inspector Huot was then called upon, and favored the assembly with a song.

The toast "The House of Commons" was then proposed and drunk. In reply to the toast, Mr. Davin dilated at length on the appropriateness of the union of Regina and Prince Albert, and then began a narration of the steps taken in getting this railway and with what exceeding difficulty these steps were attended, in the matter of getting a grant of money for the building of the road. He then bestowed unmingled praise on Prince Albert, with which he expressed himself as being perfectly delighted, everything that can make a great country and great city being here. On one side the forests, on the other the far-extending prairie. Here, he in thought travelled back to Babylon for the purpose of picturing the possibilities which are in this place owing to its situation. Now that a railway has reached this country, commercial travellers will visit it and report on its natural advantages. All former reports were looked on as travellers' tales. Amongst the Americans there had been a dead sentiment against opening one this country. Here again Mr. Davin emphasized the fact that this line is only a link in the line that is to be—the Hudson's Bay road—and which can not fail to make Prince Albert a great distributing centre, and consequently a city of great importance. In this line all the districts of the Territories are interested, and the House of Commons must be educated so that they may be alive to the welfare of this part of the Dominion. Money is required for the assistance of immigrants, and what has been given is only a slight indication of what is to be granted.

The toast "The Legislative Assembly of the North West" was responded to by Mr. Betts, who said he heartily appreciated the honor of being a member of the Assembly and the courtesy shown him by coupling his name with their health. Celebrations of this kind, he said, are bound to excite feelings of pride and pain. The painful part of this was that in connection with our railroad congratulations he and Mr. Praxton had been entirely lost sight of. While Federal members had done much in connection with our railroad it was hardly fair that the public should forget that he and Mr. Praxton had played an important part. The local house had passed a unanimous resolution which had been freely quoted in the Dominion Parliament, and had this resolution not been passed, perhaps the road would never have been built. He congratulated Mr. Davin on his brilliant comparison of the British House of Commons and that of the Dominion, and intimated that as the Dominion compared with the British, so does the Territorial Legislature compare with the Dominion. An equally pleasant duty devolved upon him, which was to propose the toast of "Our Railways," coupled with the name of Day Hort Macdowall, the popular member for our district, who had ever been the main spring of a united people in working for railroad connection, and Dr. Jardine, always found to the front when local interests were effected.

Mr. Macdowall, after expressing satisfaction at the kindly feelings shown him, proceeded to narrate the history of legislation in connection with our railway. It was, he said, a most fortunate thing for Prince Albert that the legislation first asked for was not carried into effect, as by it neither our own town nor Battleford might have had the benefit of a railway. No large bonus had to be granted by our town in order to get this railway, but we need not expect any more treatment so liberal at the hands of the government.

After enumerating the advantages of this country as being adapted for mixed farming, he proceeded to point out some of the industries which might be profitably carried on in this district, showing at some length that a woollen mill might now be carried on with profit, as there

The united feeling and interest displayed by our people in arranging and carrying through Wednesdays demonstration was creditable to our town. A beautiful day, the pleasure of entertaining His Honor and other distinguished guests, the ceremonies at the station an excellent dinner and able speeches assisted in making the celebration of driving the last spike of our railway both enjoyable and instructive. Prince Albert is now a competitor in the race of developement. Let the same united feeling which displayed itself among the great mass of citizens who organized the celebration be continued, and our future is assured.

SHEEP RAISING.

Raising sheep should be a very profitable industry in Manitoba, and one or two instances may be given to show the profits made in sheep. Last winter a farmer at Manitou, in this province, invested $600 in a flock of 100 sheep. He sold the wool of these sheep this summer for $65, and he has sold 65 lambs at $4 to $5 per head, thus realizing over one-half the first cost of the sheep within a few months, and he has the sheep. Another farmer told a city wool-dealer when disposing of his wool here recently, that he had realized $6 per head from his sheep in the sale of wool and lambs this spring. This represented $5 25 per head clear profit for the year, as he reckoned the cost of wintering at 75 cents per head, and in summer he did not count that they cost him anyahing. Even the cost of wintering them did not represent a cash outlay, but merely his time and expense of putting up hay. Sheep give a double return each year in their wool and lambs and when they pay nearly one hundred per cent. on their value each year, as in the instances given above, it would be difficult to find a more profitable investment.—Commercial.

The above being true of Manitoba, is equally true of Saskatchewan. There can be found magnificent runs for thousands of sheep, with the great advantage of numerous bluffs, running streams and abundance of hay. We are greatly mistaken if within a few years sheep raising does not become a large industry in our distrct.

The eloquent and forcible speech delivered by Mr. Justice McGuire at the banquet on Wednesday night struck the right cord. Citizens of Eastern Canada may pass resolutions and speak by the hour in their endeavors to prove that debauchery and crime are running rampant throughout the Territories, but evidence of the kind presented by the Judge is much more reliable and to the point. Law and order prevails. Saskatchewan has been given a noble record. Her people are proud of it.

If you want biscuits, or confectionery of any kind you can get them at F. C Bakers.

H. A. Axford, of the Massey manufacturing Co. was in town this week. He informs us that a good business has been done in this district, over $20,000 worth of machinery having been disposed of this season.

On or about the 15th day of November next their will be offered for sale by public auction, on reasonable terms, a large number of town lots in lots 68 and 70 in this town—parts of the Mair estate. Further notice will be given by posters before the sale.

THE FAMILY HERALD AND WEEKLY STAR, Montreal, has its enormous circulation because it does not encroach upon the local country paper's work. People everywhere find they need the FAMILY HERALD AND WEEKLY STAR, Montreal, in addition to their own local weekly. The FAMILY HERALD AND WEEKLY STAR has an enormous staff of high salaried editors, and spends large sums in gathering general news of the world at large, besides employing money freely in addition to its literary miscellany.

THE DOMINION ILLUSTRATED.

The last number of this excellent paper is quite up to the usual high record. Much attention is devoted to the Canadian Amateur Athletic Association championship games of the 27th ult., and a portrait of the secretary of the Salford Harriers, Mr. J. H. Hardwick, will be prized by lovers of sport. For another class of readers there is a group of the leaders of the Methodist Conference just closed in Montreal. Every student of our history will be glad to see the likeness of Dr. Ryerson—a really fine one. Railway men and those who benefit by their services will appreciate the portrait of Mr. W. Whyte, General Superintendent of the Western Division, C.P.R. The views of the Hamilton Public Library, of the Harvesting Scenes in the North West of storied St. Anne's, and of the Royal Scots, afford a rich variety, which must interest different classes of readers. In the letter-press we find a timely article —"The Duty of the Hour," and the contributions are all evidently of merit —some dealing with the Muskoka region one (by a Canadian lady) describing a stirring adventure in the Burmese jungle. The Dominion Illustrated is published by the Sabiston Lithographic and Publishing Company at the Gazette Building, Montreal.

FALL SHOW

of the Lorne Agricultural Society--Prize Winners.

The seventh annual exhibition of the Lorne Agricultral Society was held here on the 9th inst. The day, although rain sometimes threatened, was very fine. The show was very fair, but not at all that it might have been had greater interest been taken in it by the agricultural part of the community. In the stock department there was a fair number of entries in horses, cattle and sheep, the special prize (silver cup) for collection of cattle being won by R. J. Pritchard and the silver cup for pen of sheep going to the Island Lake Ranche. In the grain department there were very few entries, but what was exhibited was of excellent quality. The silver cup presented by the late Hon. L. Clarke for best collection of grain (2 bus. each of Ladoga wheat, oats and barley) was again awarded to Mr. Plaxton (M. L. A., this being the third time that Mr. Plaxton has won this cup. Of vegetables and dairy products there was a very good exhibit. The silver cup presented by Mr. Macdowall, M.P., for best collection of butter (20 lbs) was awarded to Mrs. D. Sullivan, which now becomes her property, having won it at two preceding exhibitions.

The ladies department was specially well represented. In it the names of D. S. Dunlop and Miss Pritchard are prominent from the number of prizes which they have won, and to these praise is due as having endeavored to make at least this department a success.

Besides these there were a number of entries in the departments of poultry, leather work and domestic productions. Space, however, forbids to give a full account. The following is list of prizes:—

TIGHT BINDING

are now a great number of sheep in this district. Another industry which might be carried on with profit is the opening of a quarry and he expressed the hope that at a near future time some enterprising person would begin the preparation of stone for our own use and for exportation. Dr. Jardine followed with an eloquent speech, describing the advantages which we may expect to attend the building of a railway to this country, which has hitherto been sitting in the darkness of isolation.

The next toast "The Bench and Bar" was ably responded to by His Honor Judge McGuire and W. V. Maclise.

In response to the toast of "the Bench and Bar," Mr. Justice McGuire said that the Bench of Canada as a whole were deserving of all the encomiums that had been bestowed on them No judge in Canada had been impeached for misconduct. The mode of their appointment made them independent as neither their elevation to the Bench nor their retention of a seat there depended on courting popular favour. Under an elective system, such as prevailed in the neighboring republic, so long as judges were human, they were exposed to the temptation of desiring to stand well with the local political Bosses. Under such a system the blindfolded Goddess was strongly tempted at times to slip the bandage from her eyes sufficiently to afford her a peep at the litigants, and in her anxiety she might forget to hold level the golden scales of impartial justice. The Judges discharge a most important function in the social system. A free people must have good laws, but in vain is good legislation unless the laws are wisely and honestly administered. Every class in the community, the farmer, the merchant, the mechanic, the professional man, each has his part to play, and just in proportion as each acts well the role assigned him just so far does he contribute to the success of the drama of social life—to the well-being and prosperity of the community. He was happy to be able to point out that the Blue Books issued by the Minister of Justice annually show that, taking each province from the Atlantic to the Pacific, the proportion of crime to population is lowest in these North West Territories. In the blue book of criminal statistics, issued this year by the Department of Agriculture, the figures for the ten years beginning with 1880 are given. From these it appears that, taking the average for the ten years, the number of offences of all kinds for the whole Dominion has been one to every 141 of the population. But when we turn to the column refering to the Territories, we find the number only one for every 1,738! To come nearer home, in this district of Saskatchewan, with its immense area of over 100,000 square miles, during the four years of which he had personal knowledge, there had not been brought before him one single serious offence—not one case of violence to the person. This was a creditable thing—a thing of which we might well feel proud. In new countries—in border settlements—where the machinery of justice is sometimes slow in getting into working order—a hope of immunity from punishment frequently tempts evil men to crime; the western states and territories of the republic to the south of us, in early days, bore an unenviable reputation in this respect; the many failures of justice created a want of confidence in the administration of the law which provoked men to take into their own hands a stern but too often unjust mode of punishing crime. Lynch law is happily a thing unheard of in our Canadian west, and intending settlers—come they from where they may—will find at least as order-loving, as law abiding, as honest a community as that from which they came; where the weak as well as the strong is free to enjoy to the full the three great inalienable rights of man—life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness by honest toil. The composite character of our people is well illustrated here to-night; we have heard with delight the delicate brogue—just enough of it to add spice to his wit—of my gifted compatriot the Pericles of Regina; we have heard from the vice-chair the broad Doric of a shrewd countryman of Burns, while on either side of me sits a descendant of old Gaul—true sons of Canada—His Honor Governor Royal, whom we are delighted to see among us, and Mr. Forget whom to know is to admire. In conclusion let me congratulate you on the auspicious event which has given rise to this banquet—an event which is largely due to your own energy and determination in bringing clearly before the Government the absolute necessity for railway communication and for which too the rest of the territories which are participating in the results achieved by you are largely indebted to you. Let me hope that the outcome may be commensurate with your loftiest aspirations, and that we may soon see Prince Albert advancing rapidly in happiness and prosperity towards that goal which you have been told so often this evening is your assured destiny, that we may see growing up on the banks of the lordly Saskatchewan a community jealously guarding their good name and reputation and building up a great and prosperous city whose fame, like our own Borealis, shall challenge from afar the wonder and admiration of the world.

The toast to "Our Guests" was responded to by Mr. Forget, Assistant Indian Commissioner, and Mr. Copeland of Saskatoon, Mr. Forget calling the attention of the audience to the fact that the name of the first settler in this country, Capt. Moore, had been altogether neglected to night.

"Comercial Interests," was responded to by Mr. J. L. Johnson, and followed by a song from the same gentleman.

The toast "Our agricultural Interests" was responded to by Capt. Craig.

The last toast, "The Learned Professions" was responded to by Dr. Foster W. R. Gunn and J. L Reid, the last gentleman also treating the company to a song.

The proceedings were then brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem.
